INTRODUCTION

The National Library of Medicine began compiling a catalog of its holdings in 1840 with the handwritten copy of the Catalogue of Books in the Library of the Surgeon General's Office, a catalog of 21 leaves. The Catalogue of the Library of the Surgeon General's Office, United States Army, published in 1872, had 454 pages. From 1880-1961, a dictionary catalog of serials and monographs, the Index-Catalogue of the Library of the Surgeon General's Office, was published. Monographs were also separately covered in the Army Medical Library's Catalog Cards (1948) and Author Catalog in 1949. The Armed Forces Medical Library Catalog (1950-1954)* was continued by the National Library of Medicine Catalog (1955-1965).* The catalog again changed its publication pattern and name to become the *National Library of Medicine Current Catalog, which has been computer-produced since its inception in January 1966.

At present, the catalog is published quarterly and cumulated annually. Each week proof sheets of current English language titles are distributed by the Medical Library Association. Cumulations for the present title have been published as a sexennial for 1965 through 1970 and a quinquennial for 1971 through 1975, excluding technical report literature that appeared in some of the annual volumes for those years. A quinquennial for 1976-1980 was produced on microfiche. The NLM Catalog, 1984 microfiche edition, was published in 1985; it contains citations to printed monographs, serials, and audiovisual serials with an imprint year of 1984 or earlier, including materials housed in the National Library of Medicine's History of Medicine Division. The NLM Catalog is kept up-to-date by the NLM Catalog Supplement which cumulates quarterly. The Supplement includes titles with a 1985 or earlier imprint date which have been cataloged or converted to machine readable form since June 1985. Publications cited in these catalogs are not to be ordered from the National Library of Medicine. They are for sale by the publisher or distributor shown in the citation.

SCOPE

This catalog contains citations to all printed monographs and printed and audiovisual serials cataloged by the NLM Cataloging Section during the period covered.

Citations in the NLM Current Catalog are published from the CATLINE® database which has been available since 1973. Coverage in the printed catalog and online file is the same except that Cataloging-in-Publication (CIP) items are not published in the quarterly issue or cumulations.

Some of the citations reflect revision of cataloging which appeared in *NLM Current Catalog Proof Sheets at an earlier time. Records with "rev." at the end of the citation have had a major change to one or more of the following elements: call number, imprint name, series, or title. A record with "Rev. CIP" has been updated to reflect data that appeared in a work which had been previously cataloged as a "Cataloging-in-Publication" item (i.e. before actual publication). A record with "Recat" has been updated and republished to reflect current cataloging practice, including ISBD format.

All serials, regardless of medium, appear in the Series Section of the NLM Current Catalog. Audiovisual series are also published in the *National Library of Medicine Audiovisuals Catalog.

FORMAT

(1) Issues are arranged in sections:
   (a) Monographs Name and Title Section;
   (b) Serials Name and Title Section;
   (c) Monographs Subject Section;
   (d) Serials Subject Section;
   (e) Medical Reference Works;
   (f) Notes for Medical Catalogers (appear in quarterly cumulations and are cumulated annually as a separate publication).

(2) Citations appear in full only under the main entry in the Name and Title Sections.

(3) Added entries are included; however, they take the form of a cross-reference to only the main entry of the appropriate citation. Thus, an added entry for an editor of one of many publications by a corporate body, which has been selected as the main entry for those publications, will appear in the form of a cross-reference from the individual's name to the name of the corporate body.

(4) Standard cross-references to names and/or titles appear in the Name and Title Sections.

(5) In addition to standard bibliographic information, the citation also includes the following data, when readily available:
   (a) The Library of Congress card number in the lower right corner.
   (b) The price in U.S. currency in the lower right corner.
   (c) The International Standard Book Number (ISBN) or the International Standard Serial Number (ISSN), which appears after the last note.

(6) Symbols appear preceding the call number to show the holding library: 02NLM for NLM; 0XNLM for NLM's added classification number; 01HMS for Francis A. Countway Library of Medicine; 01SSY for the Upstate Medical Center at Syracuse; 07CLA for the Biomedical Library, University of California, Los Angeles.

(7) All citations in non-Roman alphabets are transliterated, and, in the case of Oriental languages, appear in both transliteration and English translation.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGING

(1) The authority for the descriptive cataloging of all items cataloged after December 31, 1980 is the Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules, Second Edition, 1978 (AACR2) with Rule Interpretations from the Library of Congress (LC) and the Library of Congress' Cataloging Service Bulletin. Older records cataloged under prior rules but appearing in this publication may be identified by the citation number located at the end of the entry. The first two digits of the citation number indicate the cataloging year.

(2) Personal and corporate name headings appearing in all cataloging records regardless of the date cataloged follow AACR2 rules and LC's rule interpretations. In addition, name headings in all records, except limited cataloging described below, cataloged after December 31, 1984 have been verified in LC's authority file and the forms of headings reconciled with LC's forms for the same names.

(3) Since 1979, NLM has applied multi-level description in the cataloging of monographs. Both full level descriptive cataloging and NLM's minimal level or "Limited cataloging" records are published in the NLM Current Catalog. Limited cataloging records are identified by the note, "Limited cataloging" displayed in the citation. These records contain all the principal descriptive elements required in the AACR2 Level One description, and access points under the main entry and title, or a title main entry and one additional access point under the first named person or corporate body in the statement of responsibility.

(4) Explanations of NLM's interpretation and application of cataloging rules beginning with the 1981 quarterly issues are given in *Notes for Medical Catalogers, a section of the quarterly issue of the NLM Current Catalog. These Notes are cumulated annually and distributed by the National Technical Information Service.

CLASSIFICATION

(1) Medical titles generally are classified according to the National Library of Medicine Classification (4th ed., 1978, revised 1981).* Additions and/or changes made subsequent to the 1981 revision are reported in Notes for Medical Catalogers.

(2) Various substitutes for traditional call numbers appear throughout this publication:
  (a) The designation "Serial" is used instead of a call number for some serials.
  (b) An alphanumeric shelving number is used instead of an NLM or LC classification number for the call number of limited cataloging records.
  (c) The monographic series which NLM classes as W1 and W3 (analytics and congresses, respectively) also carry a subject classification number preceded by 0XNLM. This number appears, for example, as 0XNLM: [WB 100 S752p 1972]. NLM does not label such publications in its own collection with subject call numbers. The 0XNLM number is assigned only for the purpose of aiding those libraries which do not use NLM's W1 and W3 form classification numbers. Please do not quote any 0XNLM numbers when issuing an interlibrary loan to NLM.

(3) For titles in fields peripheral to medicine, Library of Congress classification schedules are used in full, with no modification.

SUBJECT HEADINGS

(1) The subject headings used throughout this catalog are from *Medical Subject Headings (MeSH), NLM's controlled vocabulary, which is used in the preparation of Index Medicus as well as for subject cataloging.

(2) Subject headings generally are not assigned to books published earlier than 1914, nor to later editions or reprints of material housed within our historical collections. Older materials of special reference value, e.g., dictionaries or bibliographies, will have subject headings assigned to them, however, and personal or corporate names used as subjects will be given subject entries regardless of the date of publication.

(3) Persons, corporate bodies, and/or titles used as subjects are listed in the Name and Title Sections, rather than the Subject Sections.

(4) From January 1973 to December 1983, the NLM Current Catalog included citations to selected reference works, accompanied by annotations under the subject heading: Reference Books, Medical. This heading served as an ongoing supplement to the original works of Blake and Roos, *Medical Reference Works (1967) and its separately published supplements in 1970, 1973, and 1975. Beginning January 1984, selected reference works appeared in a separate section "Medical Reference Works." Citations are listed under subject headings and include bibliographic information, notes, and an annotation.

ALPHABETIZATION

In general, filing of entries conform to the 1980 edition of ALA Filing Rules. Specifically, records in this catalog are sorted as follows:

(1) Entries are arranged alphabetically character by character, ignoring punctuation, initial and elided articles. Abbreviations, initialisms, contractions, and acronyms are filed as written.

Examples:
Matter and time
McMillan, John
MEDLARS studies
MeSH vocabulary
Meshing in surgery
Undersea injuries
U.S.S.R.-Japan symposium on. . .
Utilizing new medical technologies

(2) Character strings beginning with Arabic numerals are arranged after character strings beginning with letters. Titles and headings beginning with Arabic numerals will file under the number at the end of the Alphabet, A-Z. Roman numerals file as written.

Examples:
Zoonoses in Africa
Zoonoses, 10th seminar
10 tests for cancer
2 systems compared

(3) Spaces, dashes, hyphens and diagonal slashes are equivalent to a blank which file before alphabetic or numeric characters. Multiple blanks are treated as a single blank.

(4) All diacritical marks are ignored for sorting purposes. Modified letters, such as the Scandanavian "O," and letters modified by diacritics, such as the umlaut, are treated like their plain equivalents in the English alphabet.

(5) Punctuation marks and symbols, including the ambersand "&," are ignored in filing.

(6) Names beginning with "Mc" file as "Mc," not as "Mac." Prefixed names file word by word.

Examples:
MacDavid, John
Machine sorting
McMillan, Elizabeth
Medicine and society
Mules and farming
Müller, Jon

Le Clair, Alfred
Le Clair, Andrew
leClair, Albert
LED; an analysis

Records appearing under the same access point are subarranged by main entry, title, and year of publication. In the subject section, entries are arranged under main headings and subarranged by subheadings. Under each main heading or its subheadings, the entries are subarranged by main entry, title, and year of publication.
